The Union and the Employer recognize the right of Employees to work in an environment free from bullying and harassment. The Employer shall take such actions as necessary respecting an Employee engaging in or victimized by bullying and harassment.

Harassment is offensive behaviour that a reasonable person would consider unwelcome. Harassment can be direct or indirect, obvious or subtle, active or passive. It can take the form of written, verbal, physical, electronic, or any other form of expression. Harassment can be physical, psychological, or a combination of the two. The effect on the target of harassment is what defines it. The intent of the harasser need not have been to cause offense, as it is the effect on the target that is considered. Harassment can be one incident or repeated incidents. In all cases, it is unacceptable.

Discrimination is using real or perceived differences between people as grounds to treat them differently. Any instance of discrimination is contrary to the rights of the Employees, and against the principles and values of the Employer and the Union. Discrimination may be made on grounds including (but not limited to) Indigenous identity, race, colour, ancestry, place of origin, immigration status, language, cultural background, class, religion, family status, physical or mental health, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, age, criminal conviction, or political beliefs. Harassment on these grounds is considered Discriminatory Harassment.

A harassment complaint is not a grievance. The complainant must follow the complaint process. However, any action taken by the Employer as a result of the complaint process may be grieved pursuant to Article 7 (Grievance and Arbitration Procedures). If the Employer has not taken reasonable steps to address the incident, the Employee may file a grievance pursuant to Article 7 (Grievance and Arbitration Procedures).

Wherever possible, the parties shall seek to resolve an issue before it becomes a formal complaint. If the complainant is satisfied with the outcome reached at this point, the complaint is resolved.

Complaints where the respondent is an Employee shall be presented to the Employer. Complaints where the respondent is the Employer will be presented to the Employer's Personnel Committee, or members of the Employer's Personnel Committee who are not alleged to be part of the complaint.

ARTICLE 26 - REMOTE WORK

The Employer and the Union agree that where an Employee wishes to work remotely, such arrangements may be mutually agreed upon subject to the following terms and conditions:

26.1 General

Remote Work is defined as engaging in scheduled work during regular working hours that is done from a remote location other than the Employer worksite (the "Remote Location"), connecting to the Employer worksite remotely and authorized and approved by the Employer.

The terms and conditions of the Collective Agreement will be in full force and effect any time the Employee is working remotely.

26.2 Procedure

An Employee shall apply in writing to the Employer, indicating the length of the proposed arrangement and the hours and days of the week the Employee wishes to work remotely. Such requests will not be unreasonably denied.

- (a) Where an Employee's request is approved by the Employer and results in an acceptable Remote Work arrangement, the Employer shall provide the Employee with a letter covering the terms and conditions of the Remote Work arrangement signed by the Employer and Employee.
- (b) Where an Employee's request is denied, the Union may request a meeting with the Employer to discuss the matter. If no agreement is reached, the Employee may seek resolution through the grievance procedure.
- (c) Where an Employee has an established Remote Work arrangement with the Employer, said Employee can request alterations in the plan for a particular work week. Such requests shall not be unreasonably denied.

26.3 Hours

Under normal circumstances, the regular daily and weekly hours of the position shall remain unchanged as a result of the Remote Work arrangement unless otherwise varied by the terms and conditions contained in the letter referred to in 29.2(a), or elsewhere in the Collective Agreement.

Where there is a dispute between the language of the Remote Work arrangement and the Collective Agreement, the Collective Agreement shall supersede.

Scheduling and recording of time off (including sick and vacation) will be subject to the same rules and conditions as are currently in place and shall not occur only on days when the Employee is scheduled to attend at an Employer worksite.

26.4 Safety

The parties agree that Employees injured while working under a Remote Work arrangement will be subject to the same WorksafeBC provisions as if they were injured at the Employer's office and that Remote Work locations are defined as an Employee's regular workplace.

26.5 Privacy Rights

Employer surveillance of any kind is prohibited under this agreement.

Employees shall keep all documents related to their work in password protected files and shall keep all printed materials in a locked cabinet not accessible to anyone other than the Employees.

26.6 Term of Remote Work Arrangement

The term of the Remote Work arrangement shall be mutually agreed upon by Employee and Employer and can be cancelled at anytime within 14 days written notification.
